Conversations for a Global Community

Hawaii has been visited this year by two global peace leaders, the Dalai Lama and Desmond Tutu. Thanks to the different organizers who invited them here,* I was privileged to talk with each of them.

My conversation with Anglican Archbishop Emeritus Tutu of Capetown, South Africa, airs on Tuesday, October 9 at 7:30 pm on Long Story Short. (The interview with the Dalai Lama was for a live, in-person audience, not television.)

Both men have seen some of the worst that this world can dish out and they’ve stayed committed to their faith and to their belief in nonviolence, compassion and kindness.

They’ve also stuck to something that I found very disconcerting at first: the ability to laugh, even in the face of injustice and pain.

And they both urge people to forgive, whether or not an apology is offered.

The sound of their laughter is memorable – often sudden, loud, sometimes high-pitched.

I asked Archbishop Tutu if he’d come close to death as a teen, suffering from tuberculosis and lying in a crowded sanatorium for 20 months. He broke into what I can only describe as a chortle. “Yes!” he said. He had felt close to death a number of times in his life. And he chuckled.

Why the laughing? I wanted to know. By way of answer, he recalled his days of fighting apartheid – being treated as sub-human, attending funerals for 30 or 40 people who’d been massacred because of their race. “Maybe it (joking) was a gift that God gave for us to be able to survive,” he said. “If we didn’t laugh, we would have been crying far too much.”

Tutu is friendly with the Dalai Lama, who prays for hours at a time and faces serious threats to his life (bodyguards are a fact of life), but he doesn’t miss an opportunity to be playful.

“[The Dalai Lama] is more mischievous. I’m more dignified,” Tutu says with a grin and a chuckle.

“I’ve had to say to him…Shhh, the cameras are on us. Try to behave like a holy man.” Both men portray forgiveness as an attribute of strength.

“Forgive people even when they don’t ask for forgiveness,” Tutu says. “Abandon victimhood.”

The Dalai Lama observes, “Forgiveness does not mean you accept their wrong deeds. Real sense of forgiveness is not to have negative feeling against that troublemaker.”

Even a conversation about forgiveness ends with a laugh.

Tutu comments that forgiveness is a decision, and it doesn’t have to feel good.

“But you can, in having forgiven, get to feel good. And in fact, it’s good for your health, ha ha!”

*A hui hou (until next time),

Leslie

*The Dalai Lama’s Hawaii visit was a project of Pillars of Peace, with a lead grant from the Omidyar Ohana Fund. Archbishop Tutu came at the invitation of the dean of the Cathedral of Saint Andrew, the Very Rev. Walter Brownridge, and the Episcopal Church of Hawaii.
World-class citizens and wide-reaching discussions take center stage on PBS Hawaii in October. From one-on-one conversations to roundtable forums and live debates, global and local leaders share their stories and points of view.

Presidential, VP Candidates on PBS NewsHour
PBS Hawaii will be presenting PBS NewsHour’s live coverage of the presidential debates between President Barack Obama and Governor Mitt Romney on October 3, 16 and 22. Each debate airs live at 3:00 pm with a 9:00 pm encore each night. PBS NewsHour’s live coverage of the vice presidential debate between incumbent Joe Biden and Representative Paul Ryan will be broadcast on October 11. It also airs at 3:00 pm with a 9:00 pm encore.

Future Local Leaders on Insights on PBS Hawaii
Insights on PBS Hawaii, the live, hour-long local current affairs program, continues its Election 2012 coverage. Host Dan Boylan moderates a string of major candidate forums this month, starting with the Honolulu mayoral forum with Kirk Caldwell and Ben Cayetano on October 4. (See inset for a list of upcoming candidate forums.)

World-Class Citizens on Long Story Short
PBS Hawaii President and CEO Leslie Wilcox sits down with a five-time global chess champion and a revolutionary Nobel Peace Prize laureate for two exclusive “talk story” sessions premiering in October.

Chess Champion Viswanathan Anand
Through a partnership with Halekulani, Long Story Short features five-time reigning world chess champion Viswanathan Anand. Like many chess players, Anand had an early start: his mother began teaching him the game when he was six years old. By the time he was 14, he was already a chess champion in India.

Now in his forties, Anand is well past what is now considered a chess player’s prime. “It’s a bit strange now that people just seem shocked that I can still play at 40, whereas 15 years ago, nobody raised an eyebrow,” he tells Wilcox.

A day before taping his Long Story Short episode, Anand visited budding chess champions at the Summer
Scholastic Chess Tournament at Washington Middle School. Students and adult chess fans were buzzing with excitement as he entered the room – for good reason.

“This is the first time a reigning chess champ has visited Hawaii and one of our events,” said Randy Prothero, Hawaii Chess Federation President. “The last known visit of a chess champ was in the 1930s.”

Archbishop Desmond Tutu

Desmond Tutu, the former archbishop from South Africa who opposed apartheid, has seen mankind at its worst. Yet in an exclusive Long Story Short interview, Tutu shares words of wisdom on forgiveness and compassion, even in the face of hate and oppression.

“If you are going to wait for the perpetrator to be ready to ask for forgiveness, you are binding yourself into a victim mode,” Tutu tells Wilcox. “Whereas, you can say, ‘I am ready to forgive you and I forgive you’ and then it is like a gift. It is up to him or her to accept the gift.”

The Nobel Peace Prize laureate also reveals his light-hearted side during his conversation with Wilcox. After moments of gloom and tension, Tutu says, “If you didn’t laugh, if we didn’t laugh, we would have been crying far too much.”

From words of wisdom from respected global leaders, to discussions and debates about future leadership, PBS Hawaii brings world-class citizens into your home – and opportunities for you to discover the world and become an active citizen in it.
Halekulani Corporation
Supporting Culture and the Arts in Hawaii

Through its programming and outreach, PBS Hawaii brings the world to Hawaii and Hawaii to the world. Never has this been more true than last month, when Halekulani partnered with PBS Hawaii to welcome 2012 World Chess Champion Viswanathan Anand. Leslie Wilcox sat down with Anand for a taping of Long Story Short in the hotel’s luxurious Royal Suite. Afterward, thanks to Halekulani’s generosity, he and Leslie joined PBS Hawaii supporters at the hotel’s world-renowned La Mer for an elegant dinner prepared by executive chef Vikram Garg – with proceeds benefitting the station.

“As a responsible corporate citizen, Halekulani Corporation is honored and proud to partner with the talented PBS Hawaii ohana, as they continue their mission of education and support of culture and the arts in Hawaii,” said Vice President Patricia Tam. “PBS Hawaii has consistently been a hallmark of unique and intelligent programming, but more important, its programs are created and presented with integrity, inspiration and relevance to the local community it serves.”

Mahalo to Halekulani for its partnership with PBS Hawaii and support of our mission.

Thomas J. Long Foundation
Providing Grants to Projects of Significant Impact

This month PBS Hawaii received its first-ever grant from the California-based Thomas J. Long Foundation for HIKI NŌ. Named after the co-founder of Longs Drugs Stores, the Foundation was established to mirror the values of Thomas J. Long. Like the store’s long-time slogan, “A Tradition of Caring,” Long embodied a tradition of caring throughout his entire life. Motivated both by service and a concern for others, he established a charitable foundation to give back to the communities that helped him succeed in business.

The Thomas J. Long Foundation awards grants to projects that have significant impact in the community. With more than 80 schools statewide participating, HIKI NŌ was a perfect fit. According to Aimee Eng, Program Officer at the Foundation, “The HIKI NŌ program demonstrates a creative and innovative way that PBS Hawaii is leveraging its technical expertise and statewide visibility to improve education and work with local schools. The Thomas J. Long Foundation is pleased to support this work in the community which benefits hundreds of students throughout the state of Hawaii.” At PBS Hawaii we look forward to building this new relationship with the Thomas J. Long Foundation – fostering world-class citizens through HIKI NŌ!

PBS Hawaii engages local organizations through a variety of broadcast sponsorship opportunities. Our growing family of broadcast supporters includes businesses large and small, schools, foundations, labor unions, business associations and even individuals. “Thanks for an informative and reenergizing Boot Camp. Looks like the troops are ready!”

Chris Facuri
Aliamanu Middle School

“A great lesson in working with others, something to remember when assigning student teams. Great job, gang!”

Perry Buchalter
Molokai High School

“Please thank your staff for hosting and making us all feel so special! It is not often that public school teachers get to be ‘courted’ and pampered as we were last weekend.”

Donn Yamamoto
Waiakea High School

“Thank you so much for putting it together. It really helped me and I feel more confident now in teaching the HIKI NŌ program to the students.”

John Deal
Maui Preparatory Academy

“Mahalo for a successful, class act training. I continue to learn by doing and am thankful you helped carve out some time and valuable resources to complement the process.”

Federal Employees Can Boost Their Support of PBS Hawaii

As a member of the Hawaii Air National Guard, Ivan Uchida uses the Combined Federal Campaign (CFC) to contribute to nonprofit organizations such as PBS Hawaii. Taking advantage of the campaign, Ivan uses automatic payroll deductions to support the enriching, educational and inspirational shows on public television.

CFC is the nation’s largest workplace charity campaign for federal, postal and military employees. The campaign offers an easy and convenient way to support more than 2,700 nonprofits through payroll deductions and runs from October 1 through November 16.

Ivan, whose favorite shows include Leahey & Leahey, calls the process “fairly simple” and designates PBS Hawaii as his charity of choice because “unlike primetime TV, PBS is all about family. There are no inappropriate TV shows, only wholesome programs and I appreciate that.”

Please consider supporting PBS Hawaii through the Combined Federal Campaign using the code: 86102. For more information, please call (808) 973-1370 or email csumida@pbshawaii.org.

Each Pound of Brew Adds Up to Support from Piliani Kope Farm

As a nonprofit organization, PBS Hawaii relies on the act of giving. Recently, PBS Hawaii was on Maui to host a gathering and received a generous gift from individuals invested in their community.

Leaders of The Hawaii Coffee Association attended the PBS Hawaii event to brew and serve local coffee roasts. The Hawaii Coffee Association is a group of Hawaii farmers working to improve awareness of and interest in Hawaii-grown coffee. By the end of the day, the organization’s president and his wife, Greg and Susy Stille, announced that their coffee company, Piliani Kope Farm, located in Lahaina, Maui, would donate one dollar to PBS Hawaii for every pound of coffee they sold throughout the next year.

“Everybody works together, shares information, supports each other,” Susy said in describing her network of coffee growers, emphasizing the importance of demonstrating support. She and her husband consider community involvement a lifelong pursuit, and have been volunteering their time with various organizations since their youth.

A dollar per pound for every pound of coffee sold for the next year — mahalo to Greg and Susy Stille for their creative support of public television in Hawaii.
A Special Benefit for PBS Hawaii Supporters

PBS Hawaii’s music documentary, Keola Beamer: Mālama Ko Aloha (Keep Your Love), inspired the slack key guitar master to create a fall concert series on Kauai, Oahu and Maui. (The documentary encores Monday, October 8 at 8:00 pm.)

As a special benefit for PBS Hawaii supporters, Keola Beamer is generously offering a 20% discount on tickets for his Mālama Ko Aloha concerts this November. All three concerts begin at 7:30 pm on these dates and locations:

Thursday, November 15 – Kauai Community College Performing Arts Center
Friday, November 16 – Hawaii Theatre
Saturday, November 17 – Maui Arts & Cultural Center

To receive the discount, use the code PBSHAWAI16 when purchasing tickets. For more information about this offer, please visit our website at PBSHawaii.org.

For All Seasons, PBS Hawaii Volunteers Are the Best

Volunteerism is a cornerstone upon which many nonprofit organizations are built. Here at PBS Hawaii, we rely on volunteers to assist in our mission to advance learning and discovery for Hawaii’s citizens.

By donating their time, our outstanding young volunteers give back to their community, as they utilize life skills and develop good work ethics. A big mahalo to these summer volunteers: Yoojin Rhee, Haley Sakamoto and Joana Yasui.

We would also like to thank the dedicated phone bank volunteers for their fundamental role in the local program Insights on PBS Hawaii. On a weekly basis, they help maintain live civil discourse on timely topics relevant to Hawaii and its residents.

For more about volunteer opportunities at PBS Hawaii, call Tara Liu at (808) 973-1375 or email tliu@pbshawaii.org.

Mahalo!

PBS Hawaii would like to send a warm mahalo to everyone who showed their aloha for PBS Hawaii through Foodland and Western Union’s Give Aloha campaign. This annual community matching gifts program supports more than 500 local charities by matching a portion of donations made at checkout stands. Your tax-deductible contribution is an investment in Hawaii’s only public television station and will reach thousands of viewers across the state.

Barack Obama and Mitt Romney have crafted their campaign narratives, telling you who they are, what they’ve done and how they would lead America. But there’s more to their stories. In The Choice 2012, acclaimed FRONTLINE producer Michael Kirk (Money, Power and Wall Street, Top Secret America) documents the places, people and decisive moments that made the men who are competing for the presidency. Hundreds of hours of research and dozens of original interviews reveal new details and fresh insights about the two candidates — and our choice this November.

9:00 NOVA Secrets of the Viking Sword The Vikings were among the fiercest warriors of all time. Yet only a select few carried the ultimate weapon of their era: the feared Ulfberht sword. Fashioned using a process that would remain unknown to the Vikings’ rivals for centuries, the Ulfberht was a revolutionary high-tech tool as well as a work of art. Considered one of the greatest swords ever made, it remains a fearsome weapon more than a millennium after it last saw battle. But how did Viking sword makers design and build the Ulfberht, and what was its role in history? Now, NOVA uses cutting-edge science and old-fashioned detective work to reconstruct the Ulfberht and finally unravel the mystery of the Viking sword.

11:00 NOVA scienceNOW What Makes Us Human? Scientists have struggled for centuries to pinpoint the qualities that separate human beings from the millions of other animals that have evolved on this planet. David Pogue explores the traits we once thought were uniquely ours — language, tool-making, even laughter — to uncover their evolutionary roots.

9 TUESDAY
7:30 LONG STORY SHORT WITH LESLIE WILCOX Desmond Tutu Leslie Wilcox talks with Desmond Tutu, the South African former archbishop who openly and peacefully opposed apartheid. The Nobel Peace Prize laureate recalls tough experiences that taught him peace and compassion. Archbishop Tutu also explains why it’s best to forgive, even in the most difficult situations. He even reveals his lighthearted side and talks about how humor can defuse tense moments. (HD)

This is the story of an Indian chief who went to court to prove he was a person . . . and in the process redefined what it means to be an American. The documentary traces one man’s journey from his Nebraska homeland to the malaria-infested plains of Indian Territory and finally to a trial that made front page news across America. The film weaves interviews, re-creations and present-day scenes to tell a powerful story about human rights.

debuted at the top of the Billboard album charts, making Bennett the oldest artist to ever achieve the #1 spot. Featuring his greatest hits, performed by today’s biggest stars, this special was recorded live in studios from Los Angeles to London, New York to Italy, with Nashville in between. Joined by a diverse roster of contemporary artists, including Lady Gaga, John Mayer, Michael Buble, k.d. lang, Sheryl Crow, Willie Nelson, Queen Latifah, Norah Jones, Josh Groban, Andrea Bocelli, Faith Hill, Alejandro Sanz, Carrie Underwood and Amy Winehouse in what became her last recording, the sessions were filmed to capture the magic of these performers singing with the master of the Great American Songbook.

ELECTORAL DYSFUNCTION

Tuesday, October 30 | 10:30 PM

After discovering that the Constitution does not guarantee the right to vote, political humorist Mo Rocca (pictured) sets out on an irreverent road trip to see how voting works in America. Rocca heads to Indiana, home to some of the strictest election laws in the country, and meets one Republican and one Democrat who take him inside their efforts to get out every vote. As he progresses on his journey, he searches for the Electoral College; critiques ballot design with Todd Oldham; investigates the debate over voter ID and voter fraud; and explores the case of a former felon who was sentenced to 10 years in prison — for the crime of voting. Eye-opening, engaging and nonpartisan, it’s for voters who really want their vote to count.
