A Local Decision Bridging Thousands of Miles

In most American cities, public television and public radio are the only locally owned major media organizations.

At PBS Hawaii, decisions are made right here about how best to serve our local viewers and listeners.

When the Japanese tsunami hit last March 11th, we exercised PBS Hawaii's ability to move quickly to fill a need for timely, reliable information. Our programmer, John Kovacich, coordinated with NHK World, the English-speaking global news arm of Japan's public broadcaster, to bring Hawaii viewers a full day of the developments satellite-fresh from Japan. He learned that our top NHK World colleagues were safe and sound in Japan, waiting for the trains to start running again. Without hesitation they gave the go-ahead for us to use their satellite coverage at no cost.

WANT TO READ MORE?

Check out Leslie's recent posts:

“Our thoughts and prayers remain with the people of Japan, as they continue to hold loved ones in their hearts and to re-build.”

As you know, daytime here usually is reserved for children programming. But keiki also have a safe harbor elsewhere, on our PBS Kids channel. PBS Hawaii Master Control staffer Vicky de Mercer ran a “crawl” every ten minutes, reminding parents of young children that they could turn to PBS Kids on our “free” over-the-air channel, 11.2, or on Oceanic cable channel 443.

It was a furlough day. Many children were at home, and we wondered if we’d hear a howl of outrage. Why the heck were we showing disaster footage instead of Sesame Street and Arthur? The calls never came.

Instead, at the end of the day, we heard from people who’d watched intently for hours.

“Couldn’t believe it!” emailed a viewer. “I’d been watching other channels for those little snippets of tsunami video credited to NHK World, and then I turned to you guys—and wow! You had wall-to-wall NHK World.

Hours of tsunami pictures and the latest information and no commercials. Thank you!”

A woman called to express her gratitude. At first she had trouble finding the words, but when she found them, they were profound.

“My family is from Honshu,” she said.” I am powerless to help them. But somehow, in some small but important way, I’m experiencing what they’re going through and my spirit is with them.”

Our thoughts and prayers remain with the people of Japan, as they continue to hold loved ones in their hearts and to re-build.

The daylong tsunami coverage was an example of what a locally owned, noncommercial public media organization like PBS Hawaii can do.

PBS Hawaii is the first public broadcaster in the country to offer satellite-live, English-language reports from NHK World via a satellite dish on our roof. We'd like to thank these donors for principally underwriting the cost of the dish — the Atsuhiko and Ina Goodwin Tateuchi Foundation and the law firm Cronin Fried Sekiya Kekina and Fairbanks.

On April 11, Hiki Nō presents another first!

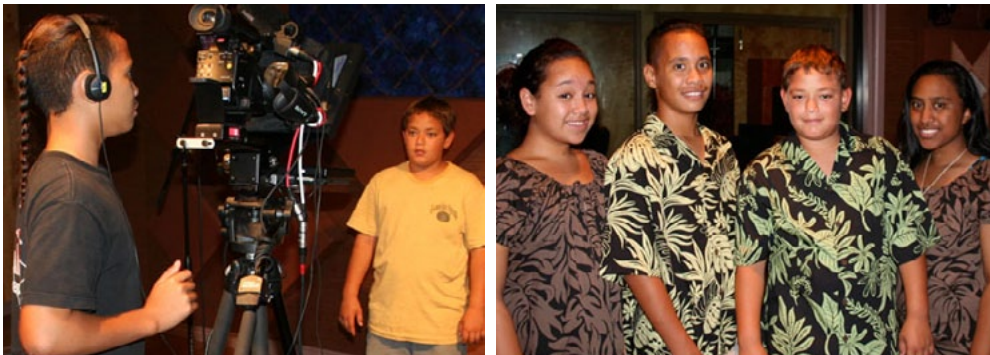

Students at Ke Kula Niihau O Kekaha Learning Center on Kauai will be the home base school for a half-hour of news stories produced by students from across the state. The Kauai students, who hail from Niihau and study at the charter school in Kekaha, will host the show, speaking in the Hawaiian language, specifically Niihau dialect. English subtitles will be provided for viewers.

The students in grades 8 to 10 are enrolled in the school's Media Program. Under the guidance of their media teacher Jim Lucas, the students wrote their script in English, then translated it into the Niihau dialect. Teachers at the school who speak the dialect reviewed the scripts for accuracy.

In May, you'll see a news story on Hiki Nō produced by Ke Kula Niihau O Kekaha students, which reflects life with ties to both Niihau and Kauai.

This Month:

MASTERPIECE
40 YEARS

Upstairs Downstairs

3-PART SERIES RETURNS
SUNDAY, APRIL 10, 17, & 24 | 8PM

It's 1936 and, sweeping away the cobwebs from the most famous address in MASTERPIECE history, a new couple moves into 165 Eaton Place. Thus resumes the romantic, moving and epic story of Upstairs Downstairs, more than three decades after its last episode on PBS.

Lavishly produced, beautifully acted and eagerly awaited by millions of fans, Upstairs Downstairs is one of the jewels in the crown of MASTERPIECE's 40th season. It airs in three one-hour episodes on MASTERPIECE Classic, Sundays, April 10, 17 and 24, 2011 at 8 pm.

"I'm so happy that we can offer our MASTERPIECE viewers this 40th anniversary gift of Upstairs Downstairs," says executive producer Rebecca Eaton. "This 2011 version is charming, romantic, touching and fresh. I think it will enthrall a whole new audience."

The stellar cast includes the original series creators Dame Eileen Atkins (Cranford, Murder on the Orient Express) and Jean Marsh (Sense and Sensibility, Willow), with Marsh reprising her Emmy Award-winning role as Rose Buck, now promoted from parlormaid to housekeeper, and Atkins appearing as the aristocratic Lady Maud. With a script by acclaimed screenwriter Heidi Thomas (Cranford), the sequel also stars Keeley Hawes (Wives and Daughters), Ed Stoppard (Brideshead Revisited), Anne Reid (Bleak House), Claire Foy (Little Dorrit), Adrian Scarborough (Cranford), Art Malik (The Jewel in the Crown) and Ellie Kendrick (The Diary of Anne Frank).

The story opens in 1936, six years after the Bellamy family moved out of 165 Eaton Place at the end of the original series. Recently inherited by young Sir Hallam Holland (Stoppard), the house has been long vacant and its considerable needs are taken in hand by Hallam's vivacious wife, Agnes (Hawes). Her first order of business is to hire servants, for which she retains Rose (Marsh), the proprietor of a domestic employment agency, although Agnes is unaware of Rose's previous association with 165. After lining up a butler (Scarborough), a cook (Reid), a housemaid (Kendrick) and other staff, Rose realizes she may be of no further use to the new family.

And so it continues, just as it did thirty-odd years ago, with stories of the upper-class and working-class intertwining in complex and interesting ways against a backdrop of world events—in this case, the abdication crisis of Edward VIII, the growing belligerence of Hitler and Mussolini on the continent and the rise of the British Union of Fascists under Sir Oswald Mosley. Amid the triumphs, disasters, joys, and tears, it's just like old times at 165 Eaton Place.

Right: Jean Marsh returns as Rose Buck.

Nature

Survivors of the Firestorm
Sunday, April 17 | 7PM

The bushfires that tore through the Australian state of Victoria in February 2009 incinerated over a million acres of land, including key mountain ash forest ecosystems. Fires are a natural force of nature which spur regeneration, but the immediate aftermath of this giant firestorm was devastation. Millions died. But burned and traumatized survivors tenderly nursed back to health at wildlife hospitals showed a remarkable ability to bounce back, and the environment an extraordinary capacity for healing.

Become a Partner

We welcome individuals, families, grandparents, teams and businesses to underwrite the presentation of shows on PBS Hawaii. Your tax-deductible grant is a gift of quality programming to the people of Hawaii, supporting education and lifelong learning.

Contact Marché Kawai, PBS Hawaii's new Director of Business Support, if you'd like to explore sponsoring your favorite programs on PBS Hawaii! She can be reached by phone at (808) 973-1990 or by e-mail: mkawai@pbshawaii.org.

Marché can share with you different ways to invest in the community through Hawaii's only public television station.

“ PBS Hawaii is an invaluable asset to our community, which is why Ruby Tuesday Hawaii has been a supporter for four years. As a family restaurant, we want to promote the values and high standard of excellence that PBS Hawaii sets for all of its programming, particularly its educational programming.

As an education major from the University of Hawaii, the partnership with PBS Hawaii is a perfect fit for me personally. My children watched PBS Hawaii when they were young and now we sit down together regularly to watch NOVA and Nature. Plus, there are programs that keep me up past my bedtime like [Independent Lens] ‘The Wild Parrots of Telegraph Hill.’ I’m normally asleep by the time it airs, but, like many PBS Hawaii programs, once started, it’s impossible to turn off.

As a PBS Hawaii supporter, I have received an unbelievably positive response from my friends, family and business associates. On every level, supporting PBS Hawaii has been, and continues to be, a wise investment. ”

Mahalo for Pledging Your Support!

PBS Hawaii wants to give a warm mahalo to all of our supportive viewers who called in during our March Pledge Drive. Your generosity allows us to continue delivering the outstanding programs you see on public television each day.

Volunteering at PBS Hawaii: A Rewarding Experience

With an interest in broadcast journalism, high school senior Kari Noborikawa found that PBS Hawaii offered a volunteer program that captured her focus and would provide valuable experience for her resumé.

As a volunteer for Insights on PBS Hawaii, Kari assisted with the phone bank and provided viewer questions to the panel.

“I was able to hear different opinions, comments and questions from both the professionals on the show and the viewers. It definitely broadened my perspective about my community,” said Kari.

After graduating from high school, Kari received multiple scholarships and was accepted into Chapman University. She believes that volunteering helped her reach those achievements because it added significant work experience to her resumé.

“It showed that I was serious about my career development as well as my personal contribution to the community. Volunteering at PBS Hawaii also gave me significant exposure and insight into the business of television. I was able to interact with staff members in a professional environment and see all the different aspects and components that go into public broadcasting,” said Kari.

Besides volunteering with Insights on PBS Hawaii, there are administrative and clerical opportunities available for individuals and small groups. By becoming a volunteer, you can expand your resumé and learn basic office skills and etiquette. Our station will provide certificates of merit and monitor progress for college and high school students who need proof of their hours.

If you're interested in volunteering at PBS Hawaii, download our volunteer application form online or call us at 808-973-1375.

PBS Hawaii is on the air seven days a week from 5 am to midnight. Viewers with cable service also have access to overnight programming. Viewers with cable service and high-definition (HD) TVs may watch PBS Hawaii in high-definition on Oceanic Time Warner Channel 1010.

The Civil War

SUNDAY, APRIL 3 | 7PM • MONDAY, APRIL 4 | 8PM • TUESDAY, APRIL 5 | 8PM
 WEDNESDAY, APRIL 6 | 8PM • THURSDAY, APRIL 7 | 8:30PM

On the 150th anniversary of the beginning of America's Civil War, PBS will re-broadcast Ken Burns's entire landmark 1990 series. Burns's epic documentary brings to life America's most destructive — and defining — conflict. THE CIVIL WAR is the saga of celebrated generals and ordinary soldiers, a heroic and transcendent president and a country that had to divide itself in two in order to become one. Voices for the series include Sam Waterston, Jason Robards, Julie Harris, Jeremy Irons, Morgan Freeman, Paul Roebing, Garrison Keillor, Kurt Vonnegut, Arthur Miller and Studs Terkel. Historian David McCullough narrates.

In an engaging 2-part interview with Leslie Wilcox, Tom Moffatt, Hawaii's most prolific event promoter, recalls presenting the 1966 Rolling Stones concert in Honolulu:

"Great, they were great... This was the last date on their U.S. tour...

We put 'em up at the Kahala, and they were happy and ... easy to work with. Unfortunately, they had in their rider where you had to hire 50 uniformed policemen (because) kids would mob the stage. Well, here, our young people respected authority, at least around the stage. They made noise, but they sat in their seats. And the Stones weren't used to this. And... they did a 27-minute show, because they didn't know what to do between songs. Where normally, it would be two or three minutes of pandemonium with kids rushing the stage. It didn't happen here... Can you imagine a 27-minute concert now, with a major act? (chuckle) But we didn't get one complaint."

NATURE “Cuba: The Accidental Eden”

SUNDAY, APRIL 10 | 7PM

This small island’s varied landscape, its location in the heart of the Caribbean and its longstanding place at the center of Cold War politics have all combined to preserve some of the richest and most unusual natural environments of the hemisphere. For decades, Cuba’s wild landscapes lay untouched while its Caribbean neighbors poisoned or paved over their ecological riches. Now, Cuba’s priceless treasures are about to face an onslaught. Tourism is already on the rise and most experts predict tourism will double once the U.S. trade embargo ends. What will happen to Cuba’s stunning biodiversity — an island filled with amphibians, reptiles and the most biologically diverse freshwater fish in the region?

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE

The Great Famine

MONDAY, APRIL 11 | 9PM

When a devastating famine descended on Soviet Russia in 1921, it was the worst natural disaster in Europe since the Black Plague in the Middle Ages. AMERICAN EXPERIENCE tells this riveting story of America's engagement with a distant and desperate people — an operation hailed for its efficiency, grit and generosity — within the larger story of the Russian Revolution and the roots of the U.S.-Soviet rivalry that would dominate the second half of the 20th century.

BLACK IN LATIN AMERICA

Haiti & The Dominican Republic: An Island Divided

TUESDAY, APRIL 19 | 8PM

In the Dominican Republic, Professor Louis Gates explores how race has been socially constructed in a society whose people reflect centuries of inter-marriage, and how the country's troubled history with Haiti informs notions about racial classification. In Haiti, Professor Gates tells the story of the birth of the first-ever black republic, and finds out how the slaves's hard-fought liberation over Napoleon Bonaparte's French Empire became a double-edged sword.

Nearly a century after his death, John Muir is remembered and revered as the father of the environmental movement and the founder of the Sierra Club. Filmed throughout the majestic landscapes in which Muir traveled, this documentary places our nation's most important wilderness assets in a cultural and social context. Muir's story could not be a timelier reminder of America's unique and, ultimately, threatened eco-systems.

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE Stonewall Uprising

MONDAY, APRIL 25 | 9PM

Veteran filmmakers Kate Davis and David Heilbroner explore the dramatic event that launched a worldwide rights movement. Told by those who took part, from drag queens and street hustlers to police detectives, journalists and a former mayor of New York, and featuring a rich trove of archival footage, AMERICAN EXPERIENCE revisits a time when homosexual acts were illegal throughout America, and homosexuality itself was seen as a form of mental illness. As the streets of New York erupted into violent protests and street demonstrations, the collective anger announced that the gay rights movement had arrived.

PBS HAWAII PRESENTS
Great Grandfather's Drum

THURSDAY, APRIL 28 | 8:30PM

Great Grandfather's Drum celebrates Japanese-American culture and history in Maui, told through an intimate and joyful portrait of the Maui Taiko drum ensemble today, descendants of plantation workers, and by elders who lived this history. Experience Maui Taiko's dramatic performances on the giant drums, and travel with them on a heartfelt journey back to rural Japan to seek their ancestral roots. It's an inspiring story of struggle and success in the greatest American tradition — of plantation life, patriotic heroism during World War II, and helping to create statehood for Hawaii. Produced by award winning documentary filmmakers Victoria and Cal Lewin.

Mahalo a nui loa to the employees and retirees of Bank of Hawaii for choosing PBS Hawaii's Hiki Nō: The Nation's First Statewide Student News Network as a recipient of the bank's inaugural Employee Giving Campaign.

Bank of Hawaii recently presented PBS Hawaii with a check for $23,060 to support the Hiki Nō program in sharing 21st-century learning and workforce skills with middle and high school students across the state.

This giving campaign raised $1 million for 20 local nonprofit organizations, selected by Bank employees. To make the donation an even $1 million, Bank of Hawaii supplemented the contributions from employees and retirees with an additional $530,000.
